

The tomb of Tutenkhamun, Egyptian king, near Luxor, Egypt, in which a series of subterranean chambers have been explored by Lord Carnarvon and Howard Carter, disclosing treasures estimated to be worth forty millions of dollars.
Pacific & Atlantic.

Prince Christopher of Greece and his wife, Princess Anastasia, who was Mrs. William B. Leeds of America, arriving in New York on the Olympic for the holiday season.

"Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men." Choir boys of St. Thomas's Church caroling a message of Christmas cheer.
Kadel & Herbert.

Entering the tomb of Tutenkhamun. Mr. Carter leading the party can just be seen; next is Lord Carnarvon, followed by Lady Allenby.
London Times from Pictorial Press.

A rare photograph. Europe's "mystery man," Sir Basil Zaharoff, famous Anglo-Greek financier, part owner of Monte Carlo and confidant of statesmen.

The Duchess of Abercorn, wife of the newly appointed Governor General of Northern Ireland, and her family. In the group are the Duchess, the Marquess of Hamilton and Lord Claud Hamilton, Lady Cynthia and Lady Katherine Hamilton.
Keystone.

A new portrait study of Mrs. W. Bourke Cockran, wife of the New York Congressman, and an interesting figure in Washington's exclusive society.
Underwood & Underwood.

Principals in an international sporting match. The Duke of Leinster (left), who crossed the ocean to arrange a ketch race over the Atlantic, and his opponent, Mr. William Washburn Nutting, American sportsman.
Fotograms.

The two oldest members of Congress, photographed on their first visit together to the White House. "Uncle Joe" Cannon of Illinois, 86, and Charles M. Stedman of North Carolina, who is 81.
Harris & Ewing.

An intimate photo of Mme. Galli Cucci, famous opera singer, at work on dolls' clothes for her Christmas presents.
Wide World.

Girls of the Junior Auxiliary rehearsing for their "animated bridge game" dance to be given at St. Vincent's Hospital reception. Left to right are the Misses Edwina Shanley, Mary Van Ellis, Lillian Moulton, Florence Cross, Charlotte Kingsley, Gertrude Kelly and Mary Leslie, who is teaching them.
Underwood & Underwood.